

Poster and Oral Abstract Submission Guidelines

The National Collaborative for Education to Address the Social Determinants of Health (NCEAS) invites proposals for poster and oral presentations from academic and professional communities for the NCEAS Annual Conference in Chicago, IL, April 28, 2020.

We welcome submissions in the following three categories: education, research, and clinical/policy innovations. Abstracts should highlight topics relevant to social determinants of health (SDOH) or health disparities and may include preliminary results, completed studies, position papers, or descriptions of completed or ongoing innovations. The aim of the poster session is to facilitate dissemination of research and innovations to the broader community of educators and healthcare professionals addressing social determinants of health. Topics of interest include (but are not limited to) training curricula, innovative strategies to address SDOH, and case studies.

The NCEAS conference committee will select the top six abstracts (2 from each category) to be presented at the oral abstract session. Poster presentations will be selected from the remainder of the submitted abstracts. To submit an abstract for consideration please review the requirements at <https://sdoheducation.org/2020-nceas-conference/nceas-conference-poster-submissions/> and submit your abstract by December 6, 2019 at 11:59PM (CST). Following our selection process, invitation letters will be sent out electronically by January 31, 2020. Selected presenters are expected to be available during their allotted presentation time to discuss their research with the conference attendees. NCEAS will provide presenters with display equipment.

About NCEAS

The NCEAS was established at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in 2016, tasked with the goal of improving teaching and learning about SDOH in healthcare settings. Since inception, NCEAS has researched the current landscape of SDOH training in medical education and effective strategies for preparing future health professionals to address SDOH. We are a collaborative of medical practitioners, educators and community organizations who are passionate about improving patient health. Together we disseminate resources, best practices, and innovative research. For more information about NCEAS and the conference program, please visit our website at <https://sdoheducation.org/>

Three Presenter Awards will be awarded!

The top presenter in the three categories (education, research, and clinical/policy innovations.) will be awarded $150. The winners will be announced during the NCEAS closing remarks.
