Educational Content of Rotation

Educational purpose and goals: G3 residents are exposed to a range of unique populations including Somali, Hmong, Smokers, Urban poor, and Homebound patients with the overall goal of observing and understanding how one might organize a practice to meet a specific population's needs. Additionally, the self-study materials will focus on health equity and how social detriments can affect health and wellbeing.

Teaching Methods

Precepting in the various clinical locations
 Self- directed learning with journaling, reading, video viewing
 Discussion with faculty tying the self-study materials with their clinical experiences

Assessment Method

Assessments will be gathered from the rotation sites
